Conway Puts Street Through Mo. Pac. Station

When the Missouri Pacific officials visited me recently and asked what they could do to quiet the public screams over the blocking of downtown railroad crossings by everlasting freight trains switching cars in the yards I happened on a lucky thought and reported it in this column.

I said, for one thing, the people of Hope never have forgiven the railroad for swiping half of Division street and then building the passenger depot so it cut off S. Main from N. Main. This was about as big a cause of traffic congestion downtown as the crossings blocked by switching operations, I told them.

They had no comment. It was a lucky "shot" on my part—for the same station-blocking-street situation existed in Conway—and an Arkansas Gazette report Sunday, Jan. 7, announced that Conway has bought the station, is tearing down the building, and will put a street through the station site.

Here's the paragraph from the Gazette:

"The City of Conway has acquired the Missouri Pacific passenger station in the downtown area and the depot will be torn down and a crossing installed to alleviate the traffic situation in the downtown area. The crossing will permit two sections of Main St. to be connected."

Conway folks do a lot of talking about their town, but they're one up on Hope in an identical situation—they get the job done instead of waiting around the wailing well.

Now, Hope, what are you going to do about OUR railroad station which cuts OUR Main St. in two?

8 crewmen missing

More aircraft downed in VN

SAIGON (AP) — The U. S. Command announced today the loss of another fighter-bomber over North Vietnam and a helicopter in South Vietnam just below the demilitarized zone. It said all eight Americans aboard the two aircraft were missing.

This raised to 35 the number of U.S. aircraft the Command has reported lost in Indochina since Dec. 18, when the two-week aerial blitz on Hanoi and Haiphong was launched. The U.S. Command in daily communications has reported a total of 107 Americans killed, captured or missing in these crashes, the costliest air losses of the war.

While the bombing halt above the 20th parallel continued, the U.S. Command reported continuing heavy B52 and fighter-bomber strikes in the four provinces of the North Vietnamese panhandle.

A total of 45 B52 strikes that dropped about 1,200 tons of bombs and 140 fighter-bomber strikes were reported flown against North Vietnam during the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today.

An A6 fighter-bomber was shot down early today about 35 miles northwest of Vinh and the two crewmen are missing, the Command reported.

The second aircraft loss was an Army UH1 helicopter that disappeared Monday evening over enemy territory in eastern Quang Tri province just below the DMZ. Four crewmen and two U.S. advisers to the South Vietnamese paratrooper division were aboard.

The South Vietnamese military command reported another round of Communist terrorist attacks had raised civilian casualties to more than 100 in South Vietnam in the past four days.

The Saigon command said a provincial capital and three district towns in the Mekong Delta and a village northwest of Saigon were shelled during the night, with a total of nine civilians killed and 35 wounded. And in Saigon, an explosive device ripped through a coffee shop near the Tan Son Nhut air base just before dawn, wounding three civilians, spokesmen said.

This brought civilians casualties from shelling and land mines reported since Sunday to 23 killed and 86 wounded.

Hanoi, meanwhile, broadcast new charges of "extermination bombing" by U.S. B52s in the southern third of North Vietnam below the 20th parallel. Radio Hanoi said B52 raids Monday on several residential areas "caused heavy losses to civilian life and property."

Hanoi also claimed that two B52s were shot down before dawn today in Nghe An province but made no mention of the crews.

The U.S. Command said it had no B52 losses to report.

Another Hanoi broadcast asserted that pro-Communist Cambodian forces have "liberated" nearly 85 per cent of Cambodia.

He makes 'plugs' for programs in address

Gov. Bumpers calls for 'bold, new directions'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers urged the state legislature Tuesday night to give his programs careful consideration. He said that "bold new directions" must be taken if "we are to be treated with anything less than contempt."

He made the remarks in his inaugural address at the state Capitol, which was attended by about 300 persons, many of them state employees and members of the Bumpers administration, who braved freezing temperatures and icy streets to listen to the address.

His 30-minute speech was interrupted by applause once, when he said he believed there would never be a better time than now to begin a public school kindergarten for the state.

He also plugged strongly for other education needs, including free textbooks for high schools, the preservation of wilderness areas in the state, expansion of the University of Arkansas Medical Center, and additional improvements at the state prisons.

In a last-minute addition to the speech, Bumpers strongly objected to a request by the cities and counties for a flat seven per cent of state general revenues, saying that earmarking a percentage of revenues for a specific purpose was a precedent "too dangerous to contemplate."

"We must, in the budgeting process, equate needs with available dollars, not needs with an arbitrary locked-in percentage which may be either insufficient or excessive at any given time," the governor said.

Bumpers said the cities and counties did have pressing needs and the federal government had recognized their problems when it passed revenue sharing. Counting retroactive payments for 1972, the counties and cities will receive almost $70 million in new money between now and Dec. 31, adding that this was "substantial relief indeed."

Bumpers, who was sworn in to his second two-year term earlier in the day, praised the accomplishments of the 1971 legislature and challenged the current General Assembly to be "as progressive, as responsive and as concerned."

"Never before in our history has there been a more harmonious working relationship between the executive and legislative branches in working to solve the economic, educational and social problems of our people," Bumpers said of the 1971 legislature. He asked whether historians also would record the 69th General Assembly.

Heavy bombing is continuation of US 'policy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff says the only reason given him for the heavy bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong area last month was that it was a continuation of the administration's bomb-or-negotiate policy.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, asked by newsmen if the White House had given him a reason for ordering the bombing resumed Dec. 18, replied: "No, the situation was that the restrictions imposed in October were lifted."

Moorer, the Pentagon's top military strategist, talked with reporters Tuesday after briefing the House Appropriations and Armed Services committees on the 12 days of stepped-up bombing. His appearance marked the first administration response to congressional calls for a complete explanation of the bombing's effectiveness and the decision to resume it.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird testified Monday that President Nixon's May 8 policy to bomb North Vietnam's industrial heartland and mine its key ports was suspended amid reports in October that peace was at hand. Laird said the bombing above the 20th Parallel was resumed when a settlement did not materialize.

Seniority system is under attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic reformers have proposed that committee chairmen be elected by all Democratic congressmen instead of being appointed strictly on seniority.

House Republicans, operating under such a rule, already have made one challenge to a ranking member's committee assignment.

And Republican senators voted Tuesday to let their GOP colleagues elect ranking members of Senate committees instead of having them named automatically.

Taken together, the developments constitute the heaviest attack on the seniority system since it became entrenched in Congress 60 years ago.

The House Democratic panel, heavily weighted with senior members, Tuesday unanimously approved an anti-seniority measure backed by younger congressmen.

It would require a vote by the House Democratic caucus—composed of all Democratic members—on each committee chairman. The chairmen would continue to be nominated, however, by a special committee on committees which undoubtedly would follow seniority in its selections, at least for the present.

But many say requiring approval of each nomination would cause chairmen to be more responsive to party policy. A chief flaw in the seniority system as seen by some is that it makes some chairmen so secure that they can ignore the will of the majority.

All the recommendations will be submitted to the next caucus for final approval.

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6-2 vote the Supreme Court today threw out a $145 million judgment against the Hughes Tool Co.

Hughes Tool is owned wholly by Howard R. Hughes, the reclusive industrialist.

The award, to Trans World Airlines, was more than 30 times larger than any other judgment in an American court.

Bryant 'shocked' by paper article

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of State Kelly Bryant said Tuesday he was "shocked" at the "quotes and omissions" of a story in the Arkansas Gazette Tuesday morning.

The article said that a survey of purchases made under Contract 27 during the first eight months of 1972 indicates that Bryant awarded the contract to the second highest bidder.

The newspaper said that at the current rate, Bryant's decision will have cost the state $26,000 by the time the contract expires at the end of this year. The contract is for the state's supply of continuous forms for computers. Over the two years, it will mean about $450,000 in sales to Democrat Printing & Lithographing of Little Rock, the Gazette said.

Bryant said Tuesday he would begin a "thorough investigation of all past, present and future charges and innuendoes printed" by the newspaper in connection with the contract.

He said his office would "immediately investigate" pricing and ordering under the contract. Bryant said he would ask Pros. Atty. Lee Munson of Little Rock and Atty. Gen. Jim Guy Tucker for their help "to determine if any laws of the state of Arkansas have been violated."

Bryant said state legislative auditors had just completed "their usual rigid audit" of all printing contracts and that he would ask that it be released to the public as soon as possible.

He said the issue of Contract 27 "has been discussed, reviewed and studied for months and has been a political issue all year."

Bryant said Moore Business Forms, Inc., was "the instigator of this controversy," adding that the firm "is still not registered to do business as a legal entity in this state." He said Moore was a Canadian-based corporation and he questioned the "enforceability of any contract entered into by Moore."

The firm was the apparent low bidder on the contract, but did not get the work.

DR. MALCOLM MALEY

Dr. Malcolm Maley is guest at Kiwanis Club

Dr. Malcolm Maley of Texarkana was Tuesday's Kiwanis Club guest speaker. He was introduced by Kiwanian Lynn Harris who arranged the program.

Dr. Maley discussed in laymen's terms some of the facts and fantasies concerning allergies. "The public doesn't know too much about allergies," he said, "They see the symptoms, not the underlying cause." Allergies are definitely inherited. At the present time studies show that only one of four people is completely allergy free. Since freedom from allergies is not a criteria for selection of a marriage partner and raising a family, and since allergies are inherited, it would seem to be only a matter of a short time until we will all be allergic to one thing or another.

Normally one thinks of hay fever, asthma, hives or some other skin irritation when an allergy is mentioned, but an allergy can manifest itself in practically any part of the human system as the organs react to irritants and rebel against the irritating agent.

An allergy, as such, cannot be treated. We are stuck with it from birth even though we may not find it out until late in life. We can, however, treat the symptoms. On discovering the irritating agent one can avoid exposure to the irritant. The body chemistry can be altered and antibodies produced. For example, specific medication can be given for insect sting to neutralize the allergy to the insect venom.

After his talk and after showing color slides of allergic reactions of certain patients, Dr. Maley answered questions from the floor concerning allergies.

Jake Honea of the House of Music and Phil Jacobs of Sears were guests at Tuesday's meeting.

Legislature responds to 'call' by Gov. Bumpers

By ROBERT SHAW

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Legislators responded Tuesday night to Gov. Dale Bumpers' call for the creation of a "new society" with predictions that the General Assembly would approve most of what the governor asked in his inaugural address to reach for "new horizons."

A number of legislators agreed with the assessment of House Speaker G.W. "Buddy" Turner Jr. of Pine Bluff that "the governor did his usual job—he made a tremendous speech." Or with the observation by Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin, the Senate president pro tempore, that it was "an excellent speech."

Turner and Bell also predicted that Bumpers would get most of what he wanted.

"I think he'll have a good batting average when the session is over," Bell told newsmen during a reception at the Capitol after the inaugural address.

But Rep. Boyce Alford of Pine Bluff, while saying he supports the governor, said Bumpers delivered "a typical politician's speech—you're reaching for the stars, the utopia that is not here on earth."

"But I guess you shoot for the stars and hope to get half or a fourth," Alford said, adding that he thought Bumpers might get "half a loaf."

And, Rep. John Miller of Melbourne said: "I just don't agree wholeheartedly with everything he said—I would probably have arranged my priorities a little differently."

Most reaction, however, was favorable to the governor, with expressions of reservations about various parts of his plan.

"I think he's got a good program and it will go over," said Rep. W.F. Foster Sr. of England, a legislative veteran. "It might be a little rocky for a little while, but he'll get 80 to 90 per cent of his program. There will have to be some give and take—he's going to have to work hard."

Said Rep. Vada Sheld of Mountain Home: "He said just what I wanted to hear—I liked it all."

But she said she had wanted Bumpers "to say something about roads," a subject about which the governor made no mention in his 30-minute speech, which contained no surprise proposals.

Sen. Robert Harvey of Swift-on and Miller also expressed disappointment that Bumpers did not say what ideas he might have in mind for a highway construction program.

Bumpers made his speech several hours after a group of legislators presented a new highway proposal to him. Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock said Bumpers' reaction was favorable.

The new proposal involves an increase in the gasoline tax and use of a percentage of the state's portion of federal revenue-sharing funds to finance road improvements.

More than 300 persons braved freezing temperatures and icy streets to attend the inaugural speech Tuesday night, crowding into the Capitol rotunda for the televised event. A number watched the proceedings on the second floor from third- and fourth-floor balconies that were draped in red, white and blue bunting.

On the speakers' platform were the state's constitutional officers and members of the Supreme Court, Mrs. Bumpers and the Bumpers' three children, the wife of Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller and Gen. Taylor Hardin, representing Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

In the audience were many legislators and state employees and administration officials, with many dressed in evening clothes for the inaugural ball that followed the reception.

Chief Justice Carleton Harris of the state Supreme Court introduced Bumpers as a governor who has met "in every respect the standards the people of Arkansas expected."

In his speech, Bumpers said: "I call on all our people to join me in building on her strengths and eliminating her weaknesses. Join me in reaching for new horizons, in creating a new society that includes all and excludes none."

Bumpers outlined major features in his program for the 69th General Assembly, emphasizing the implementation of a statewide public kindergarten, preservation of wilderness areas, expansion of the community junior college system and other educational improvements.

He also registered again his strong objections to earmarking 7 per cent of state general revenue funds for the cities and counties.

Rep. L. L. "Doc" Bryan of Russellville described Bumpers' package as a "bold, new forceful program," but he said he thought the governor would have trouble with his request for $10 million to buy wilderness areas and for about $10 million over the next two fiscal years to begin a statewide kindergarten program.

Foster predicted that the legislature would pass the cities and counties bill over Bumpers' objections and that the governor would veto the measure. Asked if the legislature would override a veto, Foster said that would be difficult.

Rep. Charles "Bubba" Wade Jr. of Texarkana said he did not realize that Bumpers would "dwell" on his opposition to the cities and counties bill and said the governor was "in trouble in that area."

Bell said Bumpers outlined his plans "very clearly." The senator, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said he was pleased that the governor emphasized the needs of education.

Rep. Mike Wilson of Jacksonville said he was inclined to support the governor's program, adding that he did not detect "a lot of bitter opposition to anything he proposed."

"He'll get a lot of what he wants because I think a lot of it is what most of the folks want," Wilson said.

Texarkana is site of 2 slayings

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Police were investigating today the slaying of Mrs. Kathryn Nadine Allen, 41, and her 12-year-old daughter, Stephanie, who were found dead Tuesday in the burned ruins of their home here.

Bowie County Coroner Kenneth Burkhalter of Texarkana said the two were dead before the house burned.

It was first thought they died in the fire, but as firemen were removing the bodies they noticed what appeared to be an electric cord wrapped around the child's neck.

Burkhalter said autopsies showed Mrs. Allen had died from multiple blows to the head and her daughter died from "brutal" strangulation. Burkhalter said autopsies showed no smoke inhalation, indicating the two were dead before the fire broke out.

100 Tuesday afternoon, Sirica cut off his interrogation and limited prosecution and defense attorneys to peremptory challenges without benefit of questioning.

"We would have certainly preferred an extensive voir dire," or open questioning of jurors, said defense lawyer Henry B. Rothblatt, "to determine the extent of prejudice caused by pretrial publicity."

Finally seated were eight women and four men, all black except for one white man and one white woman. Six alternates also were accepted. The 12 range in age from 28 to 81.

Rothblatt and the other seven defense lawyers registered their protest to Sirica's handling of the questioning.

"If there is a conviction," said fellow defense attorney Gerald Aich, "this will certainly be one of the grounds for appeal." He said of the jurors: "They look like normal people."

Five of the defendants were arrested in the early morning hours of last June 17 inside the Democratic National Committee offices in Washington's Watergate complex.

The seven are charged with conspiring to commit burglary, intercept communications and to bug the party headquarters.

One of the defendants, James W. McCord Jr., was security chief for President Nixon's reelection campaign at the time of his arrest and was a security consultant to the Republican National Committee.

DEAR ABBY: My husband falls into bed dead tired without even kissing me goodnight. Then about 4 o'clock in the morning he wakes me up and forces himself on me without saying a word. After he has satisfied himself he turns over and goes to sleep. All the while I am lying there like a statue. Would you call this statutory rape?

DEAR CURIOUS: No. It's more like STATIONARY rape.

DEAR ABBY: In one of your columns you told a girl it was all right for her to smile and wave at truck drivers. Thanks a lot! My husband is a truck driver and all he needs is good looking girls waving and smiling at him all day. He's a good-looking guy, and it doesn't take much to turn him on, and I'd just as soon he didn't make any new friends on his job. Not all truck drivers are alike, but I know my husband better than you do, so watch it, will you, Abby?

DEAR THELMA: I'll watch it, Thelma.

DEAR ABBY: Never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but after reading the letter from that young girl who asked if it was okay to smile and wave at truck drivers, I had to put in my 2 cents' worth.

I've been married to a truck driver for 19 years. There's not a better husband and father. It's an honorable position and I'm proud of him. Maybe most people aren't aware of this, but 70 per cent of the food they eat and the clothes they wear are delivered by trucks.

If a lady is stranded on the highway, a truck driver will be the first to stop and help her. And speaking of being a lady, my husband stopped to help a couple of so-called "ladies," and they robbed him of all his money.

So tell that gal to keep smiling. I hope she smiles at my truck driver someday, for it's a lonely job and he can use a smile along the way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 67, living alone in a one-bedroom apartment. The only living relative I have is a sister. Gertrude is 73, married and very well-to-do. She has been fighting with her husband Sam, who is 75, for as long as I can remember.

For the past year, Gertrude has been coming here in a taxi at all hours of the night asking if she can sleep in the other twin bed because she and Sam had another fight. Naturally, I let her stay. Sometimes she spends two nights with me until she's sure Sam has cooled off.

Now Sam calls accusing me of "breaking up his home." He says if I didn't let his wife come here to sleep she would stay home where she belongs. The old fool should know that if I didn't let her sleep here she could go to a hotel. She has plenty of money.

Sam says if I let Gertrude sleep here one more night he will cut me out of his will, and his wife's will, too. Can he do that? Please advise me.

DEAR LADY: Tell Sam that when your sister shows up at your door to spend the night with you, you will not refuse to let her in. He can cut you out of his will if he wants to, but he can't cut you out of his wife's.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Coming, Going

Janice Whitaker returned home to Edmond, Okla., last week after being the house guest of Rhonda Moses and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Moses.

Geno, South Bend, Ind., are visiting friends in Hope and Texarkana.

Mr. and Mrs. Ansley Gilbert, Mrs. Willie Mae Calhoun, and Mrs. Virgie Cunningham went to Shreveport Friday for the performance of the Lipizzan Stallions, and then spent the weekend in New Orleans with Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Phillips, Jr.

Healthy Hair

Electric rollers are not hot enough to damage hair, especially healthy hair. But if they're used too frequently, the hair will become dry and brittle. Those with already damaged hair should use the conditioner lotion that goes with these setters.

Gift tea honors Mrs. Moritz

Prior to her wedding to Fredrick Kurt Moritz of Hot Springs on Jan. 5, Miss Rhonda Moses was honored with a gift tea at the Douglas Building Dec. 30 by Mrs. Charles W. Gilbert, Mrs. Carol Yocom, Mrs. Cecil Kidd, Mrs. M.D. Smith, Mrs. Larry Walker, Mrs. Gilbert Brown, Mrs. Cybron Flowers, all of Hope; and Mrs. Larry White and Mrs. Charles Flowers, both of Texarkana.

The honoree wore a dress of maroon and pink and pinned pink carnations and fleur d'amour at her shoulder. Her mother, Mrs. Hollis Moses, and her grandmothers, Mrs. Lonnie Flowers and Mrs. Elgin Moses, all wore white corsages.

The bride's chosen colors, green and pink, were used to decorate the serving table. The cloth was green with a pink centerpiece, roses and silver candelabra. Pink punch, cake squares, nuts and mints were the refreshments.

Assisting the hostesses in dispensing hospitality were Misses Janice Whitaker of Edmond, Okla., Paula McClellan, and Charleen Gilbert. At a table marked with a memory candle, Miss Susan Stevens registered 60 guests who called during the appointed hours.

Gifts were displayed on a table covered with green centered with a white arrangement of roses and love birds.

Know that you have all you need to assure success in endeavors of your choice this coming year. Practicality, patience are needed to realize them.

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19) The boss could be a problem. You and he may not see things eye-to-eye, but he'll have the last word.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20) Your charitable nature may be put-upon because others want to dictate who you should help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Some friends may feel you have certain obligations, and could expect past favors returned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You need more support for undertakings than you can muster today. Feel others out. If they resist, back-off.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Situations that affect your future could be viewed a little too optimistically today. Don't exaggerate possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) This is not a good day to assume new obligations without being sure you can handle them.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) If disputes can be resolved without going to law, well and good. Legal matters are a little sticky today.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) What you start, you usually finish. Others know this. Today, they may palm burdens off on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) If you're a "good-time Charlie," it will cost money today to sustain the image. Is it worth it?

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) Don't make new rules for the family to follow unless you first set the example.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) You can't dodge the issue by trying to sweep problems under the rug. Think them through.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20) You will pay more than you should for something if you let impulsiveness rule reason today.

Div. 7AA roundup

Defending state champion Magnolia opened their 1973 conference season struggling to win a pair of games. The Panthers edged by Hope 48-47 and downed Camden 37-32. Meanwhile two of the pre-season favorites were winning handily as Malvern downed Ashdown 63-49 and Fairview defeated Hope 72-47.

Many observers feel that this year's conference race will be more contested than last year when Fairview won with an 11-1 league mark. Malvern, Magnolia, and Fairview are expected to wage a battle for title honors but the improved strength of several other teams can produce some upsets along the way.

The winner of the 7AA round robins will be the district champion and the No. 1 team from this area to the state Class AA tourney at Arkadelphia (HSC). The remaining teams will play a post season tourney for the No. 2 spot in the state meet.

Crossett is not playing in the round robin schedule, but will play in the post season tourney.

Games this week send Arkadelphia to Camden on Tuesday night with Magnolia at Arkadelphia; Hope at Ashdown; and Camden at Malvern on Friday night.

The first listing on individual scoring will be made next week.

As a matter of review the finish in the round robins last year was: Fairview, Ashdown, Magnolia, Arkadelphia, Camden, Hope, and Malvern.

The standings after the first week of play:

Team	W	L
Magnolia Panthers	2	0
Fairview Cardinals	1	0
Malvern Leopards	1	0
Arkadelphia Baders	0	0
Ashdown Panthers	0	1
Camden Panthers	0	1
Hope Bobcats	0	2

Marquette leads college scoring

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Al McGuire would prefer that his Marquette basketball team pay attention to him rather than Wayne Embry. He's really sensitive about it, fellows.

Of course you couldn't really blame the Warriors' coach for feeling slightly neglected. Embry, the general manager of the pro Milwaukee Bucks, comes to Marquette home games to ogle prospective college talent.

And while Embry looks over McGuire's bunch, the kids make goo-goo eyes back.

"I don't like Embry sitting that close because I think my players start using a peripheral vision," said McGuire after his fourth-ranked team turned back Chicago-Loyola 82-77 for its 81st straight home victory Tuesday night.

Marquette was only one of two Top Ten teams in action Tuesday night. Second-ranked Maryland crushed Virginia 93-74 in the other match.

Elsewhere, No. 16 Indiana drubbed Ohio 80-68; Tulsa beat Arkansas 85-81; Denver stymied Wyoming 63-51; Florida Southern trimmed Connecticut 93-85; Louisiana Tech defeated Arkansas State 80-68; Ohio smothered Marietta 87-31; La-Salle downed Rider 78-67; St. Joseph's, Pa., stopped American University 78-55; McNeese State whipped Texas-Arlington 89-76; Creighton overpowered Augustana 82-63; Hawaii hammered Abilene Christian 79-63; Northern Michigan coasted past Calvin 80-53 and Montana State slammed California-Irvine 75-59.

With its triumph, undefeated Marquette won No. 11 this year. But like most of the other victories, it didn't come easy. Five of the Warrior contests have been decided by five points or less.

The visitors forced several turnovers as Marquette tried to freeze the ball in the final four minutes and cut the margin to 78-75 on Paul Cohen's tip-in with 39 seconds left.

But Al McGuire, the coach's son, tossed in a pair of free throws with 14 seconds remaining and Marcus Washington later delivered two more to nail it down.

"I think we came back a little tonight, there were signs of it," said Coach McGuire.

The reference was clear: McGuire has long chided his charges for showing off individual talents, rather than playing as a unit, because of Embry's presence.

Len Elmore scored 19 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to lead Maryland to its 14th straight victory, dating back to last season. The Terps roared to a 38-22 halftime lead and Virginia was unable to get closer than 10 points the rest of the way.

Maryland held high-scoring Barry Parkhill to two points — the lowest figure of his career. Wally Walker led the Cavaliers with 23 points.

Super Bowl cousins on opposite sides

By JACK STEVENSON
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a youngster, Roy Jefferson used to tag along after his older cousin.

Now he hopes that cousin's football team gets whipped in the Super Bowl on Sunday.

Nothing personal because they're still friendly like first cousins should be, but Jefferson plays wide receiver for the Washington Redskins and Marv Fleming is the tight end for the Miami Dolphins.

They won't meet head-on, but they'll still be on opposite side of the Super Bowl field at Memorial Coliseum.

"He was more like a brother to me than a cousin," says Jefferson. "When I was in junior high, he got me into his high school games."

The two played together at nearby Compton High School and the University of Utah when Roy was a sophomore there and Marv a senior.

Tulsa rallies to whip Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Tulsa Hurricane, down by as much as 13 points in the first half, roared back in the second half behind junior guard Willie Biles and whipped the Arkansas Razorbacks 85-81 in college basketball here Tuesday night.

Both are now veteran pros and both have played on winning Super Bowl teams—Fleming with the Green Bay Packers and Jefferson with the Baltimore Colts of 1970. Roy is married with children and Marv a bachelor.

Roy lives in Virginia and Marv in Southern California.

They get together whenever possible and talk anything but football. Latest meeting was Monday night of this Super Bowl week.

NCAA ruling expected today

CHICAGO (AP) — The governing council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today was expected to level a punitive punch at southwestern Louisiana, a court-sheltered member accused of violating NCAA basketball recruiting codes.

The nationally ranked school last week obtained a federal court order in Louisiana to halt a scheduled NCAA hearing on the case here Tuesday. The NCAA is holding its 67th annual convention.

The temporary restraining order set a Jan. 15 date for a court hearing to determine whether the southern school should be allowed additional time to prepare a defense for any hearing before the NCAA.

On the court Debbie is just one of the guys

By IRA BERKOW
 NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It's nobody's business who won or lost.

I played Debbie (The Pearl) Mason three games of one-on-one basketball recently. We played in the Queens College gym, her home court. It began as an odd experience, and it ended that way.

I mean, playing against a woman is not like playing against Big Red at the Y, although Big Red also defies logic sometimes. Like he'll wear one black gym shoe and one white gym shoe and explain, "So what, they're almost the same size, aren't they?"

Which brings up a second point of this strange, inter-sex game: my grunting male chauvinism. I was a little cross-eyed at the thought of losing to a broad.

I had heard about Debbie Mason. About how she was the star of the Queens College women's basketball team last season, while only a freshman. About how she led the team to the New York State championship (she was named the outstanding player) and to fifth place in the national tournament.

And I had heard about her moves, the quick hips and double-pump jumps that made the crowds roar and that, inevitably, pinned on her the nickname, "The Pearl," in admiring comparison to Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

And I had heard that Debbie had recently been invited to participate in the U.S. women's basketball team try-outs. Between 50 and 75 women have been asked to come to the training camp at Parsons College in Iowa from Aug. 26 to Sept. 9. Sixteen will be chosen to play in the World Games in Moscow in 1973.

So she has been practicing daily indoors, often playing one-on-one games against men. I had never seen Debbie play, but as I laced my sneakers in the locker room, I had the feeling I was just one of many flies about to enter the spider's web.

The Queens College gymnasium is huge, and baskets seem to grow endlessly above the gleaming floor. I saw Debbie, a slight girl, eating up a sweat-soaked man at one far basket. She is 5-5 and weighs 112 pounds. She has the beginnings of an Afro. She wore a knee brace on her left leg and, justifiably, a T-shirt which said, "Superstar" (from the rock opera, "Jesus Christ Superstar").

It turns out that Debbie has all the moves I had heard about, and more and better besides. She can dribble behind her back and between her legs. She can shoot in close with either hand; her jump shot is up, behind her right ear and off her finger-tips before I—that is, one—can catch one's balance from the stutter dribble. She's a nimble defender and is said to be a hell of a passer.

She learned this from school yards, she says. She saw the boys at it, and wanted to join in. She has had no trouble playing in outdoor games. When she asks to run with someone in the next game, they usually say sure—out of curiosity.

DEBBIE "THE PEARL" WATSON (3) shoots over two defenders in a workout at the Queens (N.Y.) College gym. She led the school to the New York state women's college basketball championship and has been invited to a tryout camp for the American entry in the 1973 women's World Games.

"The guys don't take me too seriously at first," she says, amiably. "But soon they say, 'I'd better start playin' some defense.' By then it's too late."

Men have accepted her basketball playing easier than women. Other women, she says, are often envious of her. "Why do you play basketball?" they ask.

"Because I like it," she replies. "They sometimes think I'm insane, the way I practice so hard. But I want to get ahead. I want to excel. I find that women don't usually work hard at very many things. They don't understand what it takes. And they'll never know that great feeling of driving through a little, little space and then floating high up there in the air."

After playing Debbie, I had this new realization. For the first time in my life, I was with a woman and she was just another human being—not simply, simplistically, a woman.

We played hard, we played competitively, and the equality of camaraderie was absolute.

The blushing difference reared up only after I performed that sportingly chummy gesture of patting her on the rump after a good play. And I seemed to do that frequently. Out of pure instinct.

76ers: Nice guys finish last

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 The plight of the Philadelphia 76ers, according to Chet Walker, is just more proof that nice guys finish last.

Walker, an ex-76er who now plies his trade in Chicago, pumped in 20 points in the Bulls' 126-110 rout of hapless Philadelphia Tuesday night, becoming the 18th player in National Basketball Association history to score 15,000 points.

"After I got the basket to pass the 15,000-point mark," Walker said, "I looked over sadly at the press table and saw Philadelphia owner Irv Kosloff. I guess he tried to smile."

"He's just too nice a guy. He tries to be so fair with everybody, but he probably has a tendency to be influenced by persons not equipped to make the right decisions. Philadelphia is in a sad way, and no matter what Mr. Kosloff tries, it doesn't succeed."

The loss gave the 76ers a horrid 4-39 record and left them 30 games behind Atlantic Division-leading Boston. The Bulls, meanwhile, pulled within two games of pace-setting Milwaukee in the Midwest Division.

Elsewhere, the New York Knicks nipped the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 116-115 in overtime, the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 105-93, the Atlanta Hawks downed the Houston Rockets 120-114, the Golden State Warriors whipped the Detroit Pistons 105-98 and the Buffalo Braves beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 106-102.

Chicago's Garfield Heard and Philly's Fred Carter shared scoring honors with 27 points. Bob Love matched Walker's 20 for the Bulls, including 16 in the third period when they broke it open.

Colonels down Squires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Kentucky Colonel guard Louie Dampier has said that Dan Issel has a great touch and that his strength is his offense.

Issel proved that Tuesday night with an awesome display of shooting and rebounding to lead the Colonels to a 113-106 victory over the Virginia Squires in an American Basketball Association game.

Issel, hitting consistently with his medium-range jump shot and muscling his 240-pound frame under the boards, scored 44 points and grabbed 18 rebounds. His efforts helped Kentucky break open a tight game in the fourth quarter.

In other ABA games, Carolina thumped the New York Nets 110-97, Utah rallied to beat Memphis 115-111 and San Diego defeated Denver 113-109.

Coach Joe Mullaney said of Issel's performance, "Dan did a fine job, but it really wasn't because we overemphasized him."

Issel and Virginia high scorer Julius Erving traded baskets throughout the game until Issel took control late in the third quarter.

Erving finished with 34 points, four above his league-leading average, and 17 rebounds. Steve Jones poured in 30 points to lead the Carolina Cougars to a 110-97 trouncing of the New York Nets. Carolina's victory, its 11th straight, is the league's longest winning streak this season.

The Utah Stars, with their regular guards out of the starting line-up, scored 14 straight points in the final quarter to come from behind and defeat Memphis.

Two free throws by Larry Miller with 11 seconds left and two more by Simmie Hill at the buzzer helped the San Diego Conquistadors turn back the Denver Rockets.

Phillies get first choice in winter drafts

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia's tailend Phillies had the first choice in baseball's annual winter draft of free agent prospects today, and were expected to tab shortstop Alan Bannister, a former Arizona State standout, as No. 1 in the regular phase of the draft.

Bannister, who spurned a $55,000 offer from the California Angels in 1969 in order to attend Arizona State, says he's ready to move to the pros now. "I just felt that I had accomplished everything I could at Arizona State," he explained.

"The Phillies definitely need help or they wouldn't be drafting first," he added. "I'll get a chance."

Bannister set NCAA season records with 101 hits, 90 runs batted in and 177 total bases while batting .380 for the Sun Devils last season.

Although he played shortstop in college, the Phillies plan to try him elsewhere in spring training. Dallas Green, Philadelphia's farm director, said he, since the Phils have Larry Bowa to play shortstop, they'll look at Bannister at second base and in the outfield in spring training.

Two of the outstanding prospects in the secondary phase of the draft—for prospects selected in the last two drafts but not signed—are pitchers Brad Van Pelt and Dick Ruthven.

Van Pelt, an All-American defensive back at Michigan State, has not said whether he plans a pro career in baseball or football.

So the Phils are leaning towards Ruthven, a 21-year-old right-hander from Fremont, Calif. and Fresno State. He was the top choice of the Minnesota Twins in the June, 1972 draft.

The 24 major league teams were linked to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's midtown offices via conference telephone hook-up for the winter draft which has produced some first-rate talent in past years.

The Phillies earned first choice in the regular phase by the slim margin of a single percentage point. That's how far Philadelphia finished behind San Diego in the composite National League standings. The draft's regular phase order of selection is determined by inverse order of the previous season's standings with the leagues alternating on the first choice.

Philadelphia also owned the opening choice in the secondary phase of the draft, a privilege determined by drawing. The Texas Rangers chose second in both phases.

Bannister and Van Pelt are both former No. 1 selections of the California Angels. Both rejected large bonus offers to continue playing collegiate ball. Now Bannister has left Arizona State and Van Pelt is a senior at Michigan State and both are expected to be ready for the move to professional ball. Both were likely to be gone, however, by the time the Angels, No. 8 in the draft roll call, had their chance to choose.

The winter draft, always considerably smaller than its summer counterpart, has produced a host of familiar big league names in the seven years it has been in operation.

Joan Ryan

Cheerleading as a way of life

By JOAN RYAN

I now know how a used beer can feels when it's recycled. I was lulled into thinking that my cheering days in the stands had ended when my husband finally retired after a 13-year career in the National Football League, but after a meager one year lay-off, I have taken my pompons from their mothballs and am once again installed on the sidelines as one of the world's oldest cheerleaders.

This time, I'm rooting for my son instead of my husband.

"Say, Mom," was the way it all started. "Can you drive this Wednesday? It's the first cross-country meet of the year."

Funny how your mind plays tricks on you. How age places a tender halo on the past. Because all the memories that swirled over me were of bright sunlit autumn days, yellow chrysanthemums, sounds of cheering and the smug accomplishment of victory.

So I snapped up the chance to be a part of a new athletic career. "Sure, I'll drive," I said, sealing my fate.

The sky was puffy and gray as I arrived at my son's school at 2 p.m. in my battered Ralph Nader-reject station wagon. Nine gangly boys of assorted sizes loped up to the car.

"Poor Ryan," said one, "I couldn't do anything if my mother was going to watch."

Fortunately, my own son and the rest of the group didn't seem to notice that there was a breathing body behind the wheel of the car. Their conversation didn't include the driver.

"Say," said one eighth grader. "You got butterflies like I do?"

"Naw," sneered a veteran ninth grader. "I don't have any butterflies. I'm just nervous that's all."

We arrived at the nearby park where freshly lined lines on the asphalt bicycle path indicated the route of the cross-country marathon.

As the boys scrambled out and began to warm up, the swollen clouds began to leak and the peaceful country scene was cast in a half-light to welcome the rain.

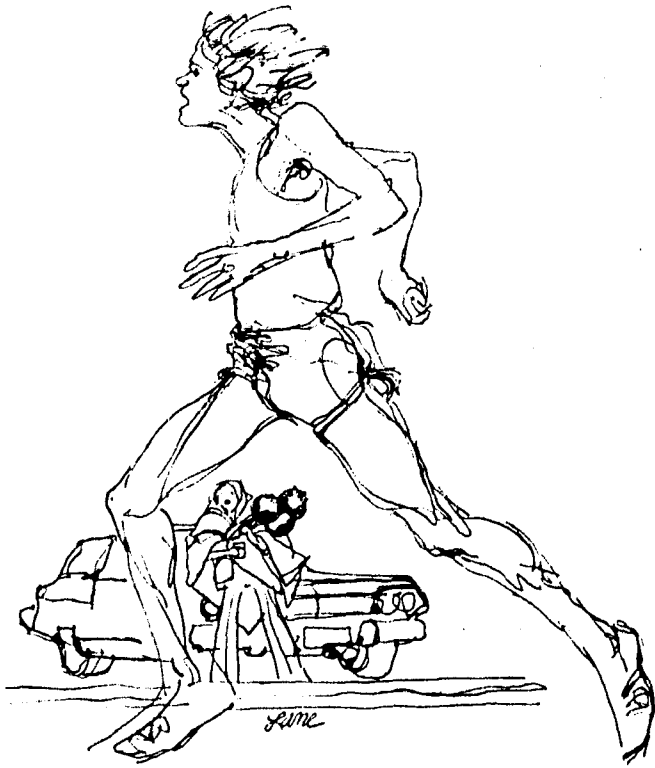

A plot of newly seeded lawn covered with barnyard fertilizer began to steam in the sudden chill and the flies swarming the site quickly chose my car as a haven. My three-year-old son and I were driven to the front fender where we huddled under an umbrella that had two broken ribs.

My memories of the glorious days of football were foundering. And my subconscious mind finally released its truth. I recalled the days in the stadium with my face numbed with steel, my feet aching with near frostbite, and my mouth scalded from hastily sipped boiling coffee in styrofoam cups. "Ah, yes, this was the way it really was," I remembered finally.

My son lined up with the eighth graders in a field of 20 boys. They sprang like young colts from the starting line and ran as if fatigue was as remote to them as old age. The same old helpless prayers for success moved my lips as I watched my young son move into ninth place.

The group rounded the first clump of trees, looped around the tennis court and headed off into the woods.

I hid behind a clutch of cheerleaders to observe the finish without being seen. And, as my son streaked by, he had a peculiar look on his face, a look both foreign and familiar to me.

I'd never seen him strain every fiber in his body. I'd never seen his eyes fixed on a finish line with a red-tinted glow like a cat's eyes in the dark.

But it was the same look I'd seen on my football player husband's face — sometimes through binoculars as he strode to the line of scrimmage on a third down and 15 play—sometimes after a game when he'd thrown three interceptions.

It was a look of grit, gumption and gall. And it meant that win, lose, or draw, he'd try it again, harder.

The pack streaked by and my son finished third. Third, out of 20! Not bad, I thought, for a first try.

A jolly group rode back to school with me, happy to have the first meet behind them.

"Hey, what's my mom going to say when I tell her I came in 20th?" joked one boy.

"Simple," laughed another. "Better luck next time, son."

We headed home, the three-year-old asleep on the front seat. I was wondering to myself if I had time to wash my hair, which had turned to concrete in the rain, and if the family would mind hash for supper.

My son, the long-distance runner, had other things on his mind. "I'm staying after school tomorrow, Mom. To practice," he said abruptly.

"You know, I almost had second place. With some practice, maybe . . ." and his eyes fogged over with that determined look again. Gumption, and gall.

My 13-year stint in the football stadium cheering for my husband was simply a practice run for what I see ahead of me. I'll be recycled four times, once for each of my sons, before I get to pack away the pompons for good.

The Los Angeles Kings played a great game Tuesday night—for about four minutes.

Fortunately, that was all they needed as they bunched three goals in the first four minutes against the New York Islanders, then hung on for a 3-2 National Hockey League victory.

Mike Corrigan scored at 1:29, Serge Bernier scored at 2:58, Vic Venasky scored at 3:44. And before some of the fans at Nassau Coliseum had a chance to settle in their seats, the home team was behind 3-0.

"We play three or four minutes of bad hockey and that ruins us," moaned Islanders Coach Phil Goyette. "That's what happens in 50 per cent of our losses."

Islanders set club record got the only goal of the second period midway through the frame, then Brian Spencer scored at 15:54 of the third period for the final margin of 3-2. The loss was the eighth in a row for the Islanders, a club record, and their 33rd in 41 games. For Los Angeles, the victory boosted them over the .500 mark with a 19-18-4 record, and their 42 points put them third in the West, just one point back of second-place Minnesota.

In the only other NHL game, Vancouver blanked St. Louis 3-0. In the World Hockey Association, Los Angeles nipped Minnesota 4-3 in overtime, Ottawa whipped Quebec 7-5 and Houston topped New England 7-5.

Vancouver's Dunc Wilson stopped 33 shots in recording his first shutout of the season and the Canucks got goals from Don Tannahill, Dennis Kearns and Bryan McSheffrey in snapping a four-game losing sreak. Gary Veneruzzo, who bounced around minor league hockey for eight years before getting his shot with Los Angeles, assisted on the tying goal with 12 seconds to go, then blasted home the winner after 1:57 of the sudden-death overtime.

In the waning seconds of regulation play, Veneruzzo fed the puck out to Ted McCaskill, whose bullet shot was deflected into the net by J.P. LeBlanc. Ottawa outscored Quebec 5-4 in a wild first period, then got two third-period goals from Bob Charlebois to clinch the victory. Jack Gibson also scored twice for the Nationals. Gord Labossiere scored three goals for Houston, including two in the third period which provided the Aeros with the margin of victory. Frank Hughes added two goals for Houston.

Bart Starr turns down coach offer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, who quarterbacked the Green Bay Packers to unparalleled National Football League success in 16 brilliant playing seasons, is passing up at least one attractive coaching offer in favor of a budding business career.

Starr, who retired as a player last July but stayed on as coach of Green Bay's young quarterbacks and was credited with a major role in the club's resurgence, announced his decision to leave the game at a news conference Tuesday, his 39th birthday.

"It's just that I have a desire to do other things," said Starr, who has an automobile dealership with two outlets in Birmingham, Ala., and a motel in Auburn, Ala.

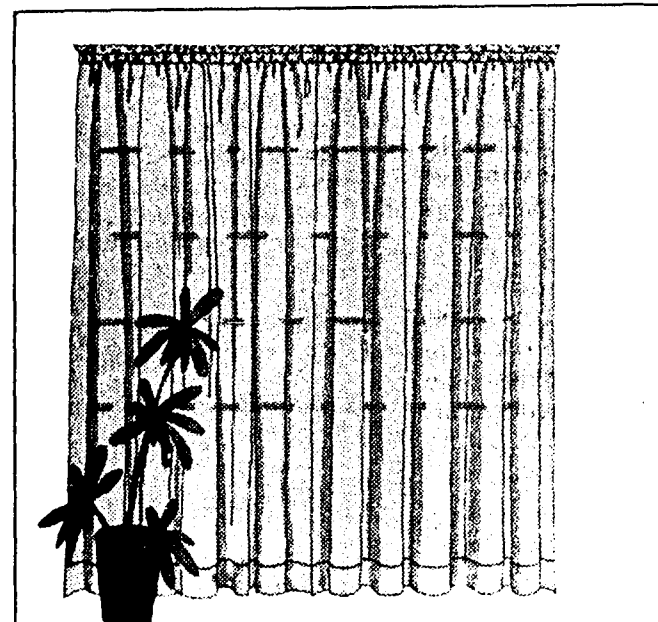

"It was a tough decision and I know I'm going to miss football," he said. "But I'm very excited about our business ventures. I'm excited with the challenge of doing something else."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elliott Gould is the father of a son, Sam, the second child born to the actor and his girl friend, Jennifer Bogart.

The baby was delivered Tuesday by natural childbirth at the couple's Hollywood home with a physician in attendance, a spokesman for Gould said.

The couple has a 2-year-old daughter, Molly.

Gould was divorced in 1971 from Barbra Streisand, his wife of seven years. They had one son, Jason.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Ernest Borgnine, who has been married since November, made no public announcement because of publicity over his four previous marriages, his publicist says.

Spokesman Joe Siegman confirmed columnist's reports Tuesday that Borgnine, 54, and Tove Newman had been married at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Of the bride he would say only that she was not an actress.

Borgnine was divorced about a year ago by his fourth wife, Donna Anna, by whom he had two children. His first wife, Rhoda, divorced him in 1959. He was married later to actresses Katy Jurado and Ethel Merman.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Moira Shearer, the former ballerina who starred in the movie "The Red Shoes," has been injured in a traffic accident.

Miss Shearer, 46, who suffered a concussion and fractured ribs in a three-car crash Tuesday night, was reported by a hospital spokesman to be "quite comfortable."

Her husband, author Ludovic Kennedy, flew from London to be with her.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Rudy Vallee has entered the race for City Council, declaring that he wants to "tear the guts out of" the council members and "curb some of the arrogance of those little tin gods."

The 72-year-old Vallee has filed to oppose incumbent Robert J. Stevenson, 56, who represents parts of Hollywood including the Hollywood Hills area where Vallee lives.

Vallee recently battled with councilmen over his unsuccessful attempt to change the name of the small street where he lives to Rue de Vallee.

President celebrates birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has celebrated his 60th birthday with a White House party and dinner that included his family and some of his closest and oldest friends.

Six candles topped the Nixon birthday cake—one for each decade of his life. The cake itself had pineapple filling and white coconut icing, the President's favorite.

"Happy Birthday R.N." was the message on the cake.

There were 15 dinner guests at the party, held in the White House Blue Room Tuesday night. Arrangements were made by Nixon's two daughters, Tricia and Julie.

Nixon family members at the party included Mrs. Nixon, Tricia, Julie and Tricia's husband, Edward Cox.

Also on the guest list were Nixon's personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, his close friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo and industrialist Robert Abplanalp and his wife. The Abplanalps have an island in the Bahamas which is one of the President's favorite vacation spots.

The president of the Readers Digest, Hobart Lewis, and his wife, were invited, as were longtime friends Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Washington and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keyes of Hollywood, Calif.

Urban Renewal program heard by Lions Club

After missing two meetings due to the holiday season Hope Lions met Monday at the Town and Country Restaurant for their first luncheon of 1973. Program Chairman Calvin Smith had arranged an interesting program on Urban Renewal, introducing Guy Grigg, rehabilitation specialist, and Vander Lloyd, relocation specialist, who brought an up to date progress report in the form of a slide presentation.

Slides were shown of areas to be razed both in residential and business sections of the city and some replacements were shown. Quite a number of slides were shown of Dennison, Tex., scenes that illustrated how downtown areas can be beautified and utilized.

Albert Patton and Henry Smith were installed as new members Monday in a brief ceremony.

Lion Patton, a former resident of Hope, has moved back after twenty years military service and now operates a furniture finish stripping service. He was sponsored by Lion Haskell Jones.

Lion Henry Smith, sponsored by Lion Harry Cagle, is the new manager of Morgan & Lindsey Dept. Store and comes from Oxford, Mississippi.

Guests present were Douglas Byrd, son of Lion Claude Byrd, and Randy O'Steen, son of Lion Cecil O'Steen.

Roosevelt's 'Big Stick' policy may return to haunt John Scali

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Teddy Roosevelt's Big Stick policy may be waiting to haunt John A. Scali when the veteran journalist becomes the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

If Panama gets its way, Scali's diplomatic baptism will be a week of Security Council meetings in Panama to air the United States' old imperialist sins in Latin America.

It could compare to the U.N.

welcome given George Bush, Scali's predecessor, who is becoming Republican national chairman. Bush got furrows in his brow when he tried — and failed — to keep Nationalist China in the United Nations in October 1971.

During his turn-of-the-century presidency, Roosevelt helped what is now Panama to break away from Colombia and become independent. Some well-placed U.S. Marines kept Colombian troops from getting to Panama City when the revolt broke out. As a result, the United States was able to buy the land for the Panama Canal cheaply.

Ambassador Aquilino Boyd of Panama made a formal request on Tuesday that the 15-nation Security Council meet in Panama's legislative palace March 15-21. The council will decide next week whether to make the trip, but Boyd appears assured of more than the nine votes he needs.

The proposed theme for the meeting is international peace and security in Latin America, but it is understood that means the stalled negotiations for a new canal treaty between the United States and Panama.

"Going to Panama without discussing the canal would be like going to church and not praying," said Boyd.

U.S. sources predict that while the meetings take place there will be demonstrations by Panamanians demanding sovereignty over the canal and tours of the Canal Zone by council members.

A trip through the tight little American enclave in the midst of sovereign Panama should provide plenty of material for the rhetoric of Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua and Soviet envoy Jacob Malik.

Further to make Scali squirm, Panama will be president of the council that month.

The negotiations for a new canal treaty began in 1964 after student riots and clashes between U. S. and Panamanian troops.

The 1903 treaty under which the United States built the canal gives it control in "perpetuity." Boyd said Panama wants to take over the canal by 1994.

Sniper is identified

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associate Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) —

Police have identified the sniper they killed on a hotel rooftop as a young Kansas black whose minister says he "hated white folks."

Supt. Clarence Giarrusso told a news conference Tuesday that the sniper was Mark J. Essex, 23, of Emporia and added: "There's some evidence of a conspiracy by other people, but I cannot positively tell you yet."

Six persons were shot to death and 17 injured in the sniping incident.

Giarrusso also said:

— Ballistics prove a .44 magnum carbine found next to Essex' body was the same weapon that killed a young police cadet and wounded a policeman in New Orleans on New Year's Eve.

— Police "have evidence that would lead to both conclusions" — that Essex was the only sniper on the roof of the Downtown Howard Johnson's hotel, and that one or more fellow snipers were with him and escaped.

Asked whether his reference to conspiracy meant he had evidence Essex belonged to a militant organization, Giarrusso said:

"I'm not certain about that yet ... (but) conspiracy in the sense that it may have been two, three or four people; a small number — you know, it doesn't take many to form a conspiracy — who were intent to kill people. And that's the sun and essence of it."

He said the carbine was the same weapon that cut down cadet Alfred Harrell, 19, as he stepped in front of police headquarters 10 days ago and wounded Patrolman Edwin C. Hosli Sr., 18 minutes later a few blocks away.

At the time of the New Year's Eve shootings, Giarrusso said, "We had some information — reason to believe people were going to hurt someone when Harrell and Hos-li were taken to Charity Hospital."

On the basis of that information, during the sniping he deployed extra officers at the hospital, where following a brief disturbance a man with a shotgun was arrested.

In Essex' hometown of Emporia, the Rev. W. A. Chambers, his family's minister, said young Essex had developed a militant dislike for whites when he came home from the Navy.

In Washington, the Navy said Essex was given a general discharge for unsuitability Feb. 10, 1970. A spokesman said this type of discharge involves "character and behavior disorders" but would not elaborate.

Meanwhile, police debated whether there was more than one sniper.

Giarrusso gave these reasons to think Essex wasn't alone:

— After his death, a helicopter which participated in a police seige on the hotel was fired upon. "You'd have to assume the police hit the plane (if Essex was alone). This is possible, but highly improbable."

— After Essex died, several policemen saw another person on the roof. "There were very, very many shots taken at this person while this person, or this ghost allegedly moved.... I can't believe that the policemen ... were all hallucinating."

— Policemen heard foul language and shouting and talking on the rooftop after Essex was killed.

Giarrusso cited these reasons for believing Essex acted alone.

— "There has been but one person found."

— "Our men insist the area was adequately sealed off."

However, under close questioning, Giarrusso conceded that "there was a time span prior to our receipt of the plans of the building that an obvious exit from the roof would have enabled other persons, if there were any, to leave the roof and go to another floor."

Parr: Losing in the ratings

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Paar, the shy, retiring lord of the late hour, beat his old NBC "Tonight" show in the ratings here, but lost in Los Angeles during his debut on the ABC television network.

The Angelinos apparently preferred Johnny Carson by a wide margin Monday night, despite the big publicity buildup ABC gave Paar's new one 6 week-a-month "Tonight" show.

However, the statistical tale of the two cities, compiled by the A.C. Nielsen ratings people, aren't the last word. They don't necessarily indicate the way things will go from here on in.

The real corporate sweat will begin when NBC and ABC executives sift through the national ratings and share-of-audience samples for all this week to see how the Paar-Carson battle is shaping up.

But here is how the New York and Los Angeles ratings, supplied by NBC sources, looked after Paar's return to the tube Monday night:

—In New York, Paar and his cohost, Peggy Cass, logged an over-all rating of 9.8, which meant their efforts were seen in an estimated 600,000 homes; Carson got a 6.4 rating, which meant he was seen in an estimated 390,000 homes.

—In less-densely populated Los Angeles, Carson logged a 10.3 rating — 350,000 homes — and Paar a 5.2 rating, which put him in an estimated 175,000 homes.
